O. U. A. M. CONVENTION. Hartford, Oct. 15 .- The twenty-fourth annual convention of the Order of United American Mechanics was held in Od i Fellows' hall, New Britain, to-day, with State Counsellor William S. Judd of New Britain in the chair. About 175 delegates, representing all the councils in the state, were present. The morning session was devoted to the organization of the state council, reports of committees on credentials, admission of new members, etc.

The afternoon session was taken up with a report of the finance committee, installation of officers and other work of the order.

The report of State Counsellor Judd showed the total membership of the order to be 8,470, the decrease for the year being about five hundred. was organized at Madison during the year. In 1888 the state council consisted of twenty-five sub-councils. During the past seven years sixty-three councils have been added. There are from seventy-five to eighty councils in a prosperous condition. The total receipts of the state council for the year were $4, 609.21 and the expenses were $4,276.53. The total receipts of the sugordinate councils were $38,527.04, $3,329.92 less than the previous year. New members to the number of seventy were admitted to the state coun-

Action was taken, giving the state council power to remit dues. This was formerly done by dispensation. The matter of raising the revenue of the state council was altered. Hereafter there will be a levy of fifty cents per capita, instead of the 10 per cent, levy on the incomes of the various lodges, as has been the custom.

It is estimated that about $4,500 will be raised in this way. The election of officers for the state council for the ensuing resulted as follows: L. D. Leonard, Litchfield, state counsellor; F. B. Gregory, Norwalk, vice counsellor: C. H. Adams, South Norwalk, secretary; E. S. Atwood, Wethersfield, treasurer; E. B. Harper, Waterbury, inductor; F. H. Baldwin, Stamford, examiner; W. G. Kimberly Bridgeport, inside protector; A. F. Taylor, Cromwell, outside protector; and George K. Birdsey of Bridgeport, representative to the national convention for three years. The next meeting will be held at Milford beginning the second Tuesday in October, 1896

The present convention will continue its sessions to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.
